Dynamic Card Solutions Completes PathWays Connector for Summit Information Systems

CardWizard Software enables Summit credit union customers to integrate instant issuance technology with core system

Englewood, Colo.—(May 22, 2007) — Dynamic Card Solutions (DCS), developer of CardWizard®, the leading instant issue and PIN selection software application for financial institutions, today announced that its flagship product, CardWizard, has been recognized as an official registered PathWays Connector component for the Summit Information Systems Spectrum core processing application.

With this registration, a certified CardWizard PathWays Connector software component is now available for Summit credit union customers, allowing them to use DCS' instant issuance technology with the Spectrum core application. The PathWays Connector streamlines the integration of DCS' instant issuance software with the credit union's existing Spectrum system and allows DCS' to incorporate Summit's current and future system enhancements into its CardWizard technology.

The PathWays Connector creates a two-way communication channel between DCS' CardWizard software and the Summit Spectrum application. As one of only two companies to accomplish the PathWays Connector registration, DCS' CardWizard software can now be integrated by Summit's credit union customers so they can instant issue and rePIN cards seamlessly without risk of database corruption.

"As more and more Summit customers adopt instant card issuance, the CardWizard PathWays Connector will give them a certified, safe and easy-to-order component to tightly integrate our systems together," said Ron Zanotti, vice president of sales and marketing at DCS. "Many credit unions have already recognized the benefits of instant issuance and integration, and now, this component will streamline the installation of this technology for a more efficient system."

Spectrum customers will order the CardWizard software directly from DCS while ordering the CardWizard PathWays Connector component from Summit. As part of the Summit Registered PathWays Connector program, DCS will be notified of any changes or enhancements for the PathWays Connector. At that point, DCS can update its CardWizard software and run it through Summits' testing process, ensuring that credit unions will not experience interruption of their card issuance system.

DCS has led the instant issuance industry, providing an easy and secure method to instantly issue and rePIN personalized ATM, debit and credit cards at branch locations. With its ability to integrate seamlessly with existing core processing systems, such as the Summit Spectrum application, DCS' CardWizard technology is the most efficient, capable instant issuance technology on the market and is used by more than 300 financial institutions across the country.
